BROTHERHOOD OF TEAMSTERS
AFL-CIO

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

On behalf of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, we welcome you to our 100th Anniversary Celebration.

The events you are attending represent the enormous collaborative effort of Teamsters and retiree groups from around the country. Thousands of hours were spent gathering and processing information, photographs, and memorabilia that portray the significant events and rich history of our Union.

History is not just faded pictures and forgotten speeches to be brought out and looked at with curiosity for a brief time, it is a chance to honor and learn from a proud legacy. For Teamsters, it is a chance to honor the North American worker—men and women who went the distance to improve the lives of working families everywhere. This legacy is the foundation on which we stand today—a foundation that promises a bright future tomorrow.

This opportunity to celebrate our achievements and renew our dedication to the goals of our Union are made possible by the generous support of you, the participants, as well as our many friends and sponsors.

We are confident that you will find this occasion both entertaining and illuminating, and will be fondly remembered for years to come. Thank you for taking part in this historic event.

Fraternally,

James P. Hoffa
General President

C. Thomas Keegel
General Secretary-Treasurer

25 LOUISIANA AVENUE, N.W. • WASHINGTON, D.C. 20001 • (202) 624-6800

Since colonial times, the men who drove the horse-drawn wagons formed the backbone of America's wealth and prosperity. Despite their essential role as the guardians of trade, these team drivers or "teamsters" as they were known, remained unorganized and exploited. In a teamster's life, work was scarce and jobs insecure. Poverty was commonplace. In 1900, the typical teamster worked 12 to 18 hours a day, seven days a week for an average wage of $2.00 a day. A teamster was expected not only to haul his load and care for his horses and equipment, but to assume liability for bad accounts and for lost and damaged merchandise. The work left teamsters assuming all the risks with little chance for reward.

Countless working families across North America have been able to join the middle class because of the most powerful and diverse labor union in the world.

In order to fight for better working conditions, groups of teamsters started forming in the late 19th Century. The early years of the Teamsters Union were a struggle as labor laws were non-existent and companies used anti-trust laws against unions.

Without the strength of a union, workers received fewer benefits and lower wages. Benefits that are taken for granted today—like weekends, job safety, overtime pay and a 40-hour work week—would not have been possible if not for the early labor movement demanding fairness and justice for working men and women.

The organization—which became officially known as the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in 1903—has changed over the years, but retained the characteristics of independence, determination, and steadfast adherence to its beliefs and values that allow it to remain a strong advocate for working men and women everywhere. Countless working families across North America have been able to join the middle class because of the most powerful and diverse labor union in the world.

Our growing unity will continue to build on our proud legacy and make the lives of future generations better through our actions today.

Workers everywhere are living better lives because their wages and benefits are tied to Teamster contracts.

"History will judge us by our ability to uphold the Teamster tradition of improving workers' lives," said James P. Hoffa, Teamsters General President. "I am confident that our growing unity will continue to build on our proud legacy and make the lives of future generations better through our actions today."

Dear Jim,

Congratulations on the upcoming 100th anniversary of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Since its formation in Niagara Falls in 1903, you and your predecessors have been a voice for millions of working families struggling to achieve the American Dream.

During the last hundred years, teams of horses have been replaced by motorized trucks, there have been 18 U.S. Presidents, the Great depression changed the nature of the American workplace, two World Wars and a Cold War have been fought and won, and advances in technology have dramatically changed our way of life both at home and at work. Through it all, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters evolved to meet the challenges each of these changes brought to the labor movement.

UPS and the Teamsters have a long history of working together that has generated security, growth, and prosperity. Today, I see both our organizations well-positioned for the opportunities that lie ahead. I look forward to working with you to take advantage of those opportunities for the benefit of our employees, your members.

Again, congratulations on the Teamsters' Centennial Anniversary.

Sincerely,

Mike Eskew

the National Policy assumed that unbridled exploitation of labor was good and that any combination of workers for their mutual protection was an illegal conspiracy.

The courageous battles of millions of Teamsters and the vision of their leaders over the past 100 years helped to reshape the American economic system. You fought and changed the system that enabled the rich to exploit, degrade and maim workers and their families without restriction. Greed and exploitation are now bridled but not broken. Fortunately you are strong and fighting for the reins.

We are honored to have played and to continue to play a part in your struggles. The Teamsters are proud leaders of the labor movement, and we celebrate your 100th anniversary.

On behalf of the working men and women that make up the membership of Teamsters Local Union 938 we congratulate The Internatioal Brotherhood of Teamsters on the occasion of their Centennial Celebration.

We celebrate 100 years of the most exciting, successful and colourful labour organization that the world has ever seen. Our history and the standard of living that our membership has achieved is a testament to the leaders that have emerged through some of the most difficult and trying times of the 20th Century.

Although we celebrate these achievements and this amazing milestone, we must never forget the struggle and sacrifice made by those who came before us.

We proudly carry the torch into the 21st century and beyond.

"Ten thousand times has the labor movement stumbled and bruised itself. We have been enjoined by the courts, assaulted by thugs, charged by the militia, traduced by the press, frowned upon in public opinion, and deceived by politicians. 'But notwithstanding all this and all these, labor is today the most vital and potential power this planet has ever known, and its historic mission is as certain of ultimate realization as is the setting of the sun."
